

Joseph R. Herkert, D.Sc., is Associate Professor Emeritus of Science, Technology and Society and a Visiting Scholar in the Genetic Engineering and Society Center, North Carolina State University. He was formerly Lincoln Associate Professor of Ethics and Technology at Arizona State University (retired May 2015). He is editor of Social, Ethical and Policy Implications of Engineering: Selected Readings (Wiley/IEEE Press, 2000) and co-editor of The Growing Gap between Emerging Technologies and Legal-Ethical Oversight: The Pacing Problem (Springer, 2011). Herkert serves as the Engineering Editor for the Online Ethics Center for Engineering and Science (onlineethics.org) and previously served as Editor of IEEE Technology and Society Magazine and an Associate Editor of Engineering

Studies. Herkert is a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and Senior Member of IEEE. He currently serves on the Advisory Group of the Center for Engineering Ethics and Society of the National Academy of Engineering. He received his BS in Electrical Engineering from Southern Methodist University and his doctorate in Engineering & Policy from Washington University in St. Louis.