About WCCI 2026

In 2026, three major conferences on computational intelligence will convene in Maastricht simultaneously. The IEEE World Conference on Computational Intelligence (IEEE WCCI) will be the world's largest technical event in computer science, focusing on applications such as artificial intelligence. The biannual conference joins the IEEE Computational Intelligence Society's three flagship conferences: the International Joint Conference on Neural Networks (IJCNN), the IEEE International Conference on Fuzzy Systems (FUZZ-IEEE), and the IEEE Congress on Evolutionary Computation. IEEE WCCI will be held at MECC Maastricht from June 21 to 26, 2026.

During the conference, about 1500 scientists from around the world will focus on the technology behind applications that are critical to our modern society, such as industry and logistics, health care, energy management, and digital government. The scientists will discuss topics such as the explainability of artificial intelligence and large language models, as well as technological developments in neural-networks, evolutionary computing, and fuzzy systems. These are all topics needed to optimize and innovate techniques in the world of artificial intelligence and data science.

The 2026 edition of IEEE WCCI in Maastricht is the latest incarnation of a long line of successful conferences organized around the world but also features innovative new ingredients to bring together industry and academics.

Engaging in WCCI 2026

As the world’s largest technical event in computer science, focusing on applications such as artificial intelligence, WCCI brings unique possibilities to commercial and public organizations to engage with the top of this technical scientific community on a global scale. To cater for this engagement, WCCI 2026 includes dedicated program ingredients, centered on the Industry Day in the heart of the conference.

Engaging with WCCI 2026 helps your organization in different dimensions. Firstly, it brings the innovators of your organization in direct contact with the latest developments in field from a truly first-hand source. Secondly, it allows your organization to promote itself as an employer for top talent in the field. Thirdly, it helps to establish your brand in a community that will shape the digital side of industry and society in the near future. And fourthly, it provides a unique channel to producers and appliers of digital technology to showcase their products or services.

For this purpose, WCCI offers sponsor packages in four levels to cater for different levels of engagement as well as two levels of exhibitor packages and a dedicated advertiser package. Each package comes with a specific set of perks but can be customized top optimize your interaction with the WCCI community.

Sponsor, Exhibitor and Advertiser Package Ingredients

Visibility: All sponsors, exhibitors, and advertisers will be acknowledged as such in the official conference materials and on the conference website. Additionally, depending on your package, you will have the opportunity to include promotional materials in the distributed conference pack or announce your participation in a pre-conference email to all attendees.

Physical Presence: For sponsors, there is an option to have a company booth; all exhibitors will have a company booth, available during the entire conference.

Attendance: Depending on the level of sponsorship, sponsors will get a set of admission tickets to the full conference and admission tickets to the Industry Day only. Exhibitors will get a set of tickets to the Industry Day only; attendance at the Industry Day VIP Meet & Greet is optional.

Presentation: All sponsors can present their organization in a content-based way during the Industry Day, either by means of a poster or by a presentation; customized assistance will be offered for tuning the poster or presentation such to get an optimal message across to the WCCI audience.

Recruitment: As sponsor, you will get the possibility to advertise a set of vacancies on the global IEEE Computer Science job posting web page; the availability of private meeting rooms during the conference for job interviews is optional.
